History of Tazewell County and Southwest Virginia, 1748-1920

---

By William C. Pendleton

Clearfield. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 718 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 1.7in. Pendleton's tome is divided into six sections: (1) The Aboriginal Period, which focuses on the Pamunkeys, Chickahominy, and Mattaponi in what would become Tazewell County, and their civilizations; (2) The Period of Discovery, which culminates with the settlement at Jamestown; (3) The Pioneer Period, which commences with the first settlements west of the Blue Ridge Mountains in 1732 and concludes with the creation of Tazewell County in 1799, encompassing the settlements launched in the Shenandoah, Roanoke, New River, Holston, and Clinch valleys, as well as in Kentucky; (4) The Ante-Bellum Period, from the organization of Russell, Wythe, and Tazewell counties to the onset of the Civil War; (5) The Civil War and Reconstruction Period; and (6) The Post Bellum Period, which emphasizes the development of Tazewell's mineral resources. The author's style is to interweave national history with local matters, as in his discussion of the Drapers Meadows massacre of 1756 in Tazewell during the French and Indian War. Woven into the narrative, genealogists will gladly learn, are essays and photographs of eminent citizens of Tazewell and the surrounding region. For example, appended to The Pioneer Period are...
